

For Greener Beverage Product Security & De-Casing Solutions.

Think Green.®

Beverage manufacturers, including makers of soft drinks, alcoholic products and fruit juices, need a responsible, cost-effective way to deal with expired or off-spec merchandise. Whether through product destruction, liquid recovery or container recycling, these companies need a way to handle unmarketable liquids that is safe, affordable and protects them from liabilities.

Waste Management, North America's number-one waste services company, is also a leader in the $500 million-per-year beverage product security and destruction industry. The company provides beverage manufacturers of all types and sizes with the industry's largest range of on-site and off-site product destruction services, plus strategic and logistics support that can help customers reduce their waste disposal costs through liquid waste prevention, recovery and recycling.

Advanced anaerobic digestion technology, which involves using specially selected micro-organisms to break down organic compounds in a closed, oxygen-free environment, provides beverage manufacturers with the "greenest" way to dispose of organic liquid. And Waste Management's customers enjoy the benefits of the industry's strongest indemnification program.
